

Faulty Cotton Seed Causing Anxiety Among Cotton Men

Most readers of local and daily papers have been reading much about the situation that now presents itself about COTTON SEED for planting purposes.

This anxiety comes about from several causes — first, it is a well known fact that cotton was damaged in this area the last season by the prolonged dry spell, and that what at first promised to be a bumper crop of well matured cotton turned out to be one of "IMMATURITY" and there is where the danger lies.

Coming to our own town, we note that in this week's issue of the Herald this fact is stressed by the Hamlin Cotton Oil Mill, in their advertising and proposition to help remedy this serious planting seed situation. They are offering a bonus for the seed the farmer has on hand to enable that farmer to sell seed that might be questionable for planting and secure some from a certified source. The argument is clear, the reasoning sound. If a good quality of seed was caught, for planting and such seed had been only partially matured it stands to reason that if they should germinate and come through it is possible that the stalk would be weak and that would result in a lowered quality of product, both as to amount and quality.

The cotton industry in this part of the state is too vital to take a chance on anything but the BEST.

Farmers, Oil Mills, Gins, Compresses, Cotton Dealers, Bankers, Merchants, and even Newspapers and everyone are to be affected by what the community produces, not only in quantity, but in quality. Then it behooves one and all to work together to improve a condition that is possible to be made better.

WE CAN'T SAY "ANYTHING WILL DO" — THAT SPELLS LOSS—FACTS PROVE IT

For years and years Texas farmers have taken the idea that the way to make profit is to get all that can be obtained, right NOW, regardless of the cost, and that policy resulted in loss of soil, and in many cases loss of standard quality. Suppose the same course should be pursued with stock . . . what a lot of scrubby things instead of what we see all about — fine blooded stock, and good yields of milk, butter and beef.

COTTON MEN ARE WATCHING

This area of the West once had a reputation of producing an extra good staple cotton, but various things have contributed to lessen that recently. To keep up a high standard, it takes constant vigilance and effort. A gap in the fence often means a lot of trouble for more than one year. Why not let's watch the "gaps" and let no scrubby stuff through. Not many people appreciate a scrub in anything. One cotton man says, "Texas cotton farmers have been penalized very generally because they did not or could not obtain good cotton seed for planting. Some communities have overcome this condition by joining together and planting a single variety of good cotton; but in most Texas fields, seed from poor cotton continues to be planted.

The farmer who produces short wasty lint is the first loser. The U. S. Dept. of Agriculture estimated that Texas farmers loss on the 1936 crop of cotton was above FIVE million dollars, because of "un-renderable" staple.

In District No. 24: Scurry, Nolan, Fisher, Jones, Taylor, Callahan and other counties, which produced above 150,000 bales in 1936, over 60,000 bales were "untendable short staple bales and figuring on a loss of $10.00 per bale, it meant that these counties lost more than $600,000 in cotton income. Well, that's too much loss when it can be remedied. The same situation was reported for districts No. 25 and 30. Prosperity cannot return, cannot be permanent, in any sense, if the basic staple of the country's products is to continue below the more valuable quality.

To improve any situation where ALL are concerned, is no ONE man

W. W. COLLINS PASSED AWAY SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 21

Funeral services were held at the Fairview Baptist Church, Monday afternoon, for W. W. Collins, who passed away at the home of his son, Miles M. Collins, six miles east of Hamlin. Rev. Shannon of Abilene had charge of the funeral.

Mr. Collins was born in Georgia, March 7, 1866, and had reached the age of 70 years, 11 months and 14 days. He had spent the greater part of his life farming.

The Barrow Company had charge of interment and placed the body to rest in East Cemetery, Hamlin.

Otto Berlin, manager of the Strauss Dry Goods Co., left Sunday for New York, where he went to market and to visit his mother. He will likely be away for ten days or more.

Mrs. Bob Barrow and daughter, Mildred, visited relatives in Snyder, Saturday, and attended the Hamlin-Forsan basketball game. They were accompanied by Mrs. Bo Galaway and Phyllis Gay Milsap.

INTRODUCING

AUDITORIUM, MARCH 9
2:30 AND 8:00 P. M.

If you have never seen a puppet show, this is your opportunity to see the most famous and elaborate show of its kind. If you have seen a puppet show, you will enjoy this troupe more than ever.

There are four operators with the show who work on two bridges above the stage. The puppets are controlled by strings, the major characters having 16 strings. Can you imagine four people controlling 16 marionettes, each having from 9 to 16 strings? It is a handful but these capable people know their job. Of course the operators must pull the strings, but they also have to be soloists, acrobats, opera, singers, and elocutionists.

Tony Sarg, the famous artist and cartoonist, developed and perfected the marionettes as a hobby. He owns the show and has the best operators to be found. One of his operators has been on the job 15 years.

Make your plans to attend this unusual show. The prices are reasonable.

job. It is a proposition belonging to all. Cotton men, whether they be farmers or men who handle the cotton in any form should know the chief corners of loss and then they should rally to eradicate the evil, if at all possible or at all measurable. It will do but little good for one person to see a valuable house on fire to jump about frantically to put it out to save the entire community, the fight belongs to all, except a few who will always drag their feet and pick up at the expense of their fellow man.

West Texas is confronted with the fact that seed saved for planting purposes show by actual test that only about 40 to 60 pounds per hundred will germinate. That is one reason why there is room for concern at this time.

HAMLIN PIPERS WIN DISTRICT CHAMP.

Hamlin's "Scintillating Piped Pipers" have given athletic fans an eye full in every basket ball contest they have participated in this season.

One man and his wife attending the tournament in Snyder last Saturday night despite the wind and the sandstorm, from this community, came near fainting when it looked for a while that The Pipers would go down in defeat. The Snyder tournament assembled the champions from over the district and if ever any "gang" expected to down the "Sensational Pipers," it had to be THEN.

When the final "tornado" struck, the Pipers were in mortal combat with Forsan, of Howard Co. The first quarter Hamlin piled up 5 to 3 over the spunky opponents, but evidently their "wind" gave out in the next quarter which ended against the Hamlinites to the tune of 7 and 12. That meant "trailing" not leading, as Pipers are supposed to do. By the end of the third quarter our boys were flopping back in the dust with several points in the red. Then if a fan is going to "faint" that was a pretty good time and excuse to do so. Two minutes after the last lap started the Hamlin boys were 11 points behind. But that was where the trick started. Maybe the Popular Pipers had been baiting the Howard County Lobos for the fur then began to fly, and gosh, watch how the Pipers kicked the dust off their heels into the eyes of their astonished opponents. Look—eight field goals and a foul shot was checked up while the Forsan Fellows only got one field count and one foul scratch. Now when a thing like that turns out like that, we may see the turn of feelings by that "said couple" from Hamlin. They counted their heart beats from down in the lower fifties to . . . well, let's see, far up maybe into the hundreds mark, and instead of fainting they shouted right out in "meeting."

The scores for the tournament games for Hamlin stood as follows:
Hamlin 29, Snyder 21
Hamlin 29, Colorado 11
Hamlin 29, Tuscola 18
Hamlin 26, Forsan 23

CARRIED TWO RAILROAD MEN TO SAN AGILO HOSPITAL

Last Saturday the Barrow Ambulance carried Tom Bronson, a Santa Fe trainman to the San Angelo Hospital, suffering from a case of pneumonia.

Sunday the same ambulance took A. Davis, another Santa Fe man, to the same hospital, also with pneumonia. Both men stood the trip well and here is hoping they will soon be out of danger.

A. DAVIS DIED THURS MORNING

Friends of A. Davis have been uneasy all the week about the condition of Mr. Davis who was carried to the San Angelo Hospital last Sunday with a case of pneumonia.

Information came about eleven-fifty o'clock Thursday morning that he had died.

The Barrow ambulance started at once to return the body to Hamlin, where preparations will be made to send the body to Nashville, Tennessee, for burial. This is the tentative arrangements as it was learned Thursday afternoon.

Pending the completed arrangements the body will rest at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George Howard.

Besides the companion, one child, little Patsy Ann, survives. Brothers and sister and other relatives of the deceased reside in Tennessee.

Mr. Davis has lived in Hamlin many years, being employed as conductors on the Santa Fe.

Information is that Mr. Brunson is getting along nicely.

MRS. YARBOROUGH REPORTS HER HUSBAND STOOD THE OPERATION

Hines, Ill., U. S. Vet. Hosp., Ward D-413, 2-22, 1937.
HAMLIN HERALD,

How glad I am to report Mr. Yarbrough went through his operation fine, and to date he is doing good.

He was operated on Monday, February 15, which was his own birthday. He says he was really born anew—a second birthday. He went into the operating room at 8:20 and came out at 12:00 o'clock. They took off a part of the stomach; also a part of the intestine and started the food back the old outlet of his stomach. A very serious operation. But Doctors say he had to have it. When he is completely well from this operation the Doctors believe he will feel like a new man, even though that will be a long time in the future.

Another thing that was great news to us was it was NOT a cancer. You remember that is why he was sent here from the Texas hospital and the Doctors here debated for three weeks and finally decided it wasn't.

Mr. Pope this is a wonderful place. The Doctors seem to be the best that money can buy. The Doctors and Nurses all have been grand to Mr. Yarbrough and very considerate of me the long days and nights I stayed in the hospital right after the operation.

You know just one month here makes me glad I'm from the south. There must be every race of people here and they talk with such a Northern accent (I guess it is) that when they say something to me I have to say, "I beg your pardon," but I'm no worse than they are when I'm doing the talking; they come right back at me the same way.

If Mr. Yarbrough continues to do well I expect to start back to Texas Friday night.

Your friend,

MRS. C. D. YARBOROUGH.

P. S.—Say, I want to straighten out that big story I told you about it not being cold here. It wasn't cold when we came in but this is the most changeable weather I ever saw. No two days alike. People here say they are having a very warm winter, but I have seen it down to 5 below zero. That's too cold for me.

MRS. C. D. YARBOROUGH.

IMPORTANT P. T. A. MEETING NEXT WEEK

The Hamlin P. T. A. meets next Thursday, March 4, at the High School. Mrs. W. R. Weaver, District President, will be present to give information and inspiration for the Conference. Every person interested in Child Welfare is urged to be present.

This is the last meeting before the Conference and will be very important. Election of next year's officers will be held. Don't forget to come.—Publicity Chairman.

Mrs. J. L. Keen came in from California, on Wednesday, and will likely remain at her farm home east of Hamlin for several months. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. T. F. Nanny, and they are now enjoying the quietude of their Texas farm home in contrast to sunny (?) California. Mrs. Nanny will later go on to Denver to visit her daughter.

Hating others makes one the constant companion of his own shadow.

for your seed, where you buy planting seed.

—All you have to do is to show a receipt for the Planting Seed you have bought and we will give you this price, for this amount of seed.

—You can buy Planting Seed from us, or any one else who has planting seed to sell and this will hold good.

—The Price is considerably more than these seed are worth, but we are doing this to encourage BETTTER PLANTING SEED and reserve the privilege of withdrawing this price at any time.

—Our Sweetwater mill is still running, but as soon as they close down we will not be able to pay anything like this price, for seed. As we do not wish to carry them through the summer.

—Our seed crop last fall is very inferior and should not be planted at all if it can be avoided. A very large percent will not germinate. If they do come up they will likely make a weak stalk with very little fruit as they were not well matured. They have a high per cent of damage (Free Fatty Acid)

A BIG MOSQUITO
SEEN SUNDAY

Last Sunday was February 21st. The early morning was so cold that vessels of water in yards were covered with a pretty good thickness of ice. By noon last Sunday the chill on the north sides of houses was still severe enough to make a coat comfortable.

By twelve-thirty, on the north side of Ye Editor's house we observed what we thought was one of our old mosquito friends that ate on us all last summer. Examining closer, by gum, and by gosh, sure as heck, there stood the old "huzzy" game as of old, perched up there on the screen, preening her wings, and looking cocky as you please, except from all appearances her "carburetor" was working sluggish. Anyway, to make sure, and be actually truthful, we located a wide mouth bottle and slipped out and slapped it over the old lady and ever since that hour she has had a snug warm place inside, and believe US that's one old grandma mosquito who will lay all the eggs she has to spare in that bottle—hope some crank will not get us up before the "humane court" for cruelty to dumb animals, bugs or whatever you class a she-mosquito.

All the above is actually true. We can prove it. February, just passing and already mosquitoes are coming out from hibernation. That means they are getting ready to deposit a billion or more eggs in the first warm puddle of water when the temperature is high enough.

Did you ever hear the frogs croak? Only when the temperature is right. When frogs "yelp" you may bet that soon there will be a ditch full of tadpoles. Those little rascals feed on all kinds of bug eggs, mostly mosquitoes, and therefore become benefactors to humanity. But the baby frogs can't eat all the mosquitoes, or their eggs. But little frogs become large frogs later and when the weather is just right he come to the top of the dirt, under a bunch of weeds or bushes and being damp, or sweaty, the big frog makes a dandy place for the hungry mosquito to rest and maybe eat—if the frog's tongue does not get him first.

Now this all leads to the mosquito fight. Take a peep at our old mammy mosquito again. She might have been the mother of an army of "blood-suckers" that would vex the nerves of strong men. The time to stop her organization work is before and by the time warm weather starts. No use in fussing about mosquitoes after they invade every nook and corner. Nature has fixed them so that they live over a long period . . . if not, how do they hibernate in winter?

But some one will say, "What are we going to do about it?" What are we going to do about anything? The only thing humans can't do "something about" what is, and should not be, is when a lot of humans are mixed up in such a mess that they claim "personal rights" to do as they please. Let that situation alone. But when one recalls that Texas is the biggest thing in the world, and that only a generation or less ago every pasture, every wood, every lane or path had a lot of cow ticks in it . . . think of the war on them. Just a few places in Texas are now ticky. Ticks can't fly—somebody or some animal must carry them. Mosquitoes fly a little distance, and their choice food is on the back of the hand or neck of a person, preferably whites, and the whiter, and the more delicate the better they like it. They like to dig and the best place is into a satin-like skin. They even sing to you but their song is one of death provided they have been eating on something that bears contagion. The mosquito is as dangerous as the fly and maybe more so. Mosquitoes have routed armies.

But what are WE going to do here in Hamlin? Let's remember Hamlin has a gentle slope, and drainage is hard, and the town easily becomes dirty, foul, filthy, except that clean-up is in progress all the time. Clean-ups will not bother mosquitoes after they get started. That helps them.

Maybe we have not made this story hard enough on your faithful summer hummers, who entertain you so easily on your lawns on a summer evening. Maybe we had better take it slowly just a week or so, but if we do we hope you will observe your first 1937 mosquito. Bottle him or her up. Perhaps we had better say she, for we hardly believe nature would care for a mere he during the winter. All nature needs to do is to permit the she to get through the winter and it will not be long till there will be plenty of her to do their part of the bloody operations. The war has just started.

KNOW TEXAS

Denton, Texas. — Did you know that if every individual in the State of Texas would try to draw one book out of the 56 public libraries, there would be four people to every book. Of the thirty-six cities in Texas above 10,000 in population, seven do not have tax supported public libraries, and 2,800 rural communities are without library facilities.

Considerable progress has been made in recent years in the building of libraries for the use of the general public and in educational institutions, but the State is still deficient as measured by the standards of many of the older commonwealths.

The library work of the state is administered by the State Library and Historical Commission. Under it the State Library, which is housed in the capitol, has been built to a collection of approximately 180,000 volumes. It is next to the library of the University of Texas in size. The Houston Public Library contains 162,981 volumes; the Dallas Public Library, 123,448; San Antonio Public Library, 112,852; Carnegie Public Library, Fort Worth, 108,667.

In 41 colleges and universities of the state, there are 35 books to every student enrolled. The University of Texas library, with almost 500,000 volumes, is the largest in the state, and also possesses a number of notable collections. Next to the University of Texas, Rice Institute, Houston, has the largest college library with 118,700 volumes; Southern Methodist University with 85,000; Baylor, 65,216; Texas A. & M., 52,728; and Texas State College for Women, 50,500.

MRS. TIMS MARRIED

ARIZONA MAN

Mrs. Ina Tims was married Saturday at twelve o'clock, in Lordsburg, New Mexico, to Mr. Clarence Gillespie, of Phoenix, Arizona.

Mrs. Tims, accompanied by her little daughter, Bobbie Rae, left Hamlin Friday afternoon at two-thirty o'clock, by bus, and arrived in Lordsburg Saturday morning where she was met by Mr. Gillespie, and the ceremony was performed at noon of that day. The couple left immediately for Phoenix, Arizona, where they will make their home and where Mr. Gillespie is employed in iron construction work.

Mrs. Tims is a daughter of Mrs. Tom McGuire and has made her home in Hamlin for a number of years.

Mr. Gillespie formerly resided in Hamlin, perhaps, 18 years, being employed on the Orient railroad.

INTRODUCING

AUDITORIUM, MARCH 9
2:30 AND 8:00 P. M.

If you have never seen a puppet show, this is your opportunity to see the most famous and elaborate show of its kind. If you have seen a puppet show, you will enjoy this troupe more than ever.

There are four operators with the show who work on two bridges above the stage. The puppets are controlled by strings, the major characters having 16 strings. Can you imagine four people controlling 16 marionettes, each having from 9 to 16 strings? It is a handful but these capable people know their job. Of course the operators must pull the strings, but they also have to be soloists, acrobats, opera, singers, and elocutionists.

Tony Sarg, the famous artist and cartoonist, developed and perfected the marionettes as a hobby. He owns the show and has the best operators to be found. One of his operators has been on the job 15 years.

Make your plans to attend this unusual show. The prices are reasonable.

Adults 25c—Children 15c,
Reserved seats 10c extra.

A FEW QUESTIONS

When is the Fisher County Show going to be held? When must I bring my calf in? Does a pig have to weigh under 200 pounds? Who is going to be our Judges? Are we going to have a parade? Will my calf be a winner? These and many other questions pertaining to the Fisher County Boys' Club Show to be held on Saturday, February 27, assures us that the Show is creating much interest in the County, and that a large number of people will attend to see one of the finest exhibits of boys' livestock projects ever to be exhibited in one county in Texas.

The Show will open at 9:30 with the parade. Judging will start promptly at 10:00 A. M.

ROTARY CLUB TAKES UP WELFARE WORK

It will be remembered that several weeks ago the Herald carried information that the Baptist Hospital at Abilene was offering to render some service in the Hamlin community by giving needy children a free clinic and operation for tonsil and adenoid trouble.

Responding to that offer perhaps thirty or forty children ask for the treatment, but only six or ten were selected and that was the limit then of the free offer. It was found that many others were suffering badly from lack of medical care and operation. That being the case many persons have volunteered to give individually to such cases as absolutely need attention.

The hospital is not seeking charity work, but is doing much anyway. They seek service to humanity first of all, but where many children need treatment they are offering to perform the ordinary tonsil and adenoid operation, and keep the child twenty-four hours for as low as $7.50. Now to save a human is the best thing above all.

Last Wednesday in the Rotary Club, the Community Service Committee made its report and the child need was included. One member after another voiced a desire to get in and help in the "rehabilitation" of the boys and girls of the community whose parents were unable to have tonsil-adenoid operations performed. At the conclusion of the luncheon hour perhaps more than sixteen men had contributed $7.50 a piece for the Community Service Committee to use for operations, starting with the most severe cases. Let this be understood that this welfare work knows no race or color line—all that is necessary is that the child's parents can not have the work done and that the child really is in danger. Of course in all cases the child and parent must take full responsibility of operation results.

JUNIORS SCORE SECOND SUCCESS

The quick unseen movements of Miss Eileen McPherson eliminated the one great obstacle that confronted the path of true love and the boy got the girl. That is in short the summary of the Junior play, "Kid Colby," which has been recorded in the annals of this high school's Little Theatre productions. The class is indebted to Juanita Harbert, Clifford Reynolds, John Kent Jones, Constance Teague, Roy Edwin Tims, Bill Norris, Lois Ellen Stell, Mary Emily Eakin, Dorothy Jane Bailey, Eloise Riddle, Loren Griffin, Mary Dell Park, and Wyatt Hanks, for turning out such a splendid performance, for they certainly made their two hours entertaining. We feel that they did their best and we are certain those who came to see the play will agree with us.

Eight very attractive Junior girls, namely, Mary Stovall, Fay La Verne Howard, LaNelle Sledge, Ada Jane Howard, Bernice Shelton, Irene Tinnin, Marie Akers, and Virginia Barnes made very efficient ushers.

Having played the second of the three major Junior events successfully behind us, the Juniors wish to extend their sincere appreciation to the friends of the class who were so kind in helping us to score our "second Junior victory." We especially wish to thank Mrs. Ferguson and Mr. Pope for their great efforts in advertising the play, Gerald Morgan for stage properties, the Bell Telephone Company for the telephones and Lester Morton, John F. Green, and Jacqueline McCoy for the specialty numbers. To the faculty and, particularly, to Mr. Green and to

Mr. Bennett go our grateful thanks for standing by the Junior Class. Had it not been for the friends and patrons of the school and the school faculty, the Junior class could not claim such a successful Junior play. —Junior Reporter.

This is a scene from Tony Sarg's Marionettes to be presented in Hamlin High School Tuesday afternoon and Tuesday night, March 9, under the sponsorship of the Woman's Literary Club.

A GIANT OF DESTRUCTION

Every day, somewhere, newspapers carry headlines of disasters, such as these: Exploding Kerosene Stove Wipes Out Family; Man Killed Pouring Oil on Fire; Smoker Dies in Gasoline Explosion.

Apparently the common use of petroleum products in motor cars and stoves has lulled people into a false sense of security while using these fluids. It has caused them to become careless. The record indicates that a warning must be given if lives and property are to be spared.

Here are recommendations of the National Board of Fire Underwriters: Don't attempt to start fires in stoves or furnaces with gasoline or kerosene.

When using a kerosene or gasoline stove, always follow directions of the manufacturer. Keep the stove clean, extinguish flame after use and allow to cool before filling. Store the supply can outside the house.

In order to be sure your stove is safe, buy only those listed as "standard" by the Underwriters' Laboratories.

Don't smoke while filling the stove.

Don't clean clothes with gasoline, naphtha or benzine.

Human life is our most precious possession; guard your own and that of your dear ones from this giant of destruction.

Petroleum, properly handled, is one of man's most useful servants. Improperly handled, it can become a giant of destruction. Remember that—it may save your life.

Double Meaning

IT FIRST appeared in a Philadelphia newspaper in 1776 thus:

Hark! hark! the trumpet sounds, the din of war's alarms, O'er seas and solid grounds, doth call us all to arms; Who for King George doth stand, their honors soon shall shine; Their ruin is at hand, who with the Congress join.

The acts of Parliament, in them I much delight, I hate their cursed intent, who for the Congress fight, The Tories of the day, they are my daily toast, They soon will sneak away, who independence boast; Who non-resistance hold, they have my hand and heart. May they for slaves be sold, who act a Whiggish part; On Mansfield, North, and Bute, may daily blessings pour, Confusion and dispute, on Congress evermore; To North and British lord, may honors still be done, I wish a block or cord, to General Washington.

It was reprinted in many other Colonial newspapers. "That's fine!" said British army officers and Tory officials. "The man who wrote that is certainly loyal to His Majesty and he has very wisely condemned this foolish Revolution."

If any Patriot heard one of them say that, he must have smiled to himself. For if he was "in on the know," he didn't read the poem as it is printed above. He read each line as far as the comma in the middle, then he read the next line the same way and so on. Or he began reading at the comma in the first line, then dropped down to the comma in the next and so on.

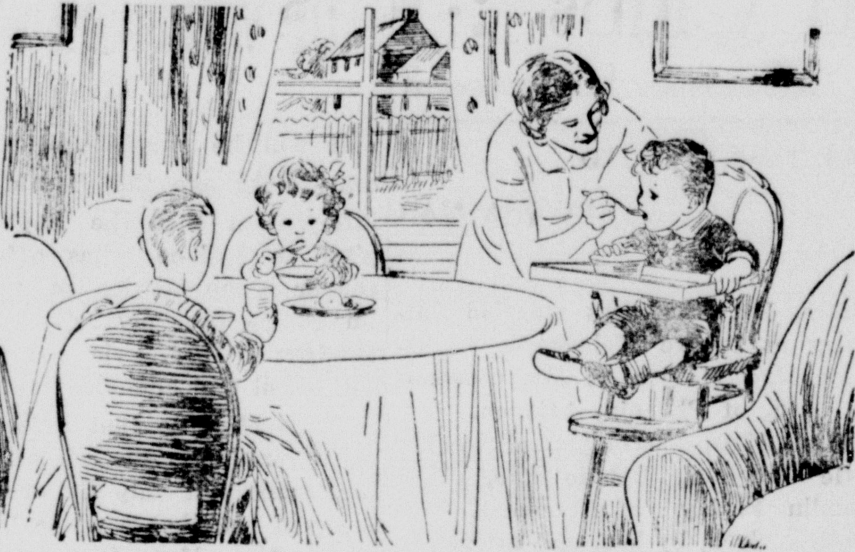

That gave the poem a very different meaning indeed. Try it and see for yourself why the Patriots read it that way!

HOW TO MEET THE WORTHLESS HUSBAND PROBLEM

The woman who has children is the richest woman in the world. No matter what her other problems may be, if she is surrounded with sons and daughters she can work her way through to happiness.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

THE worthless husband problem is always with us. It is very much at the moment with Kate Ranger, who writes me from a farm in the middle west. She doesn't know what to do about Judd.

Kate is thirty-five; she has four children. Boys of fourteen and eight, girls of ten and four. They have a place three miles from a small cross-roads town; the children come and go to school, movies, dentist and church in a Ford. An Indian woman lives on the place and helps Kate; an old Chinese does farm work for his board and a few dollars a month, and invested capital, fortunately placed in Kate's name in a happier hour, brings her in $200 a month. With that is raised on the farm and sold from the farm she is prosperous; her children are "all darlings." She herself does church and club work, has two married brothers on neighboring farms where little cousins can come and go; altogether her life would be all in order but for Judd.

Judd has always been a weakling. He drinks; he rolls dice and plays poker when he can get hold of any money. He borrows. He makes Kate ashamed and his children ashamed. Not always, but often.

Usually he drifts idly about the farm, sometimes fishing, sometimes helping with cherries or pig packing, but generally quite idle. Kate buys him tobacco; she won't have one drop of liquor on the place.

"Not with Judd almost fifteen, and Judd like he is. He isn't ever violent when he gets drinking," she says. "But he's dreadful just the same, arguing along gently and wanting to interfere. He'll sometimes be in the car when the children come out of school, and you can imagine it isn't very pleasant for them. It's a terrible thing to say, but they don't like their father, and it's his fault. We hear him snoring sometimes when they're doing their homework, and they'll look at each other. I don't allow any sauciness."

"Judd will help with the dishes, sometimes, or sometimes he'll be real irritated and seem to feel sick. He goes off now and then for a couple of days and I'm just at my wits ends to know where he is. His friends are the town bums, and twice one of them has tried to borrow money from the children."

"I've made it a matter of prayer," concludes this troubled wife, "and it seems that maybe I ought to divorce him. I don't know where he'd go or what he'd do, but it's all wrong to have him complicating the children's lives, when he doesn't contribute one cent to the household, or do anyone one bit of good. He's awfully fond of the baby, and I think she'd miss him, but a child that age gets over anything, and I could explain to her some day that her father was just the one thing that kept all our lives from being ideal."

Well, Kate, since you ask my advice you're going to get it. It's this. I wouldn't divorce him. I'd forget that I ever thought of divorcing him. I see in that idle, boozing, weak, disreputable father of theirs what is perhaps the most important element you can put into your children's lives. An element that makes for strength instead of weakness in them; for salt instead of too much sirupy sweet.

In every possible way I'd make their childhood delightful. Cousin parties, charades, theatricals, picnics, long walks, swimming afternoons, candy pulls, house-parties. I'd have a table out in the yard under a tree; I'd have Judd build a little grill near it, and have many a summer meal out-of-doors. You have infinite sources of pleasure in the possession of these sons and daughters; make the most of them.

BUT—keep in the picture this man who demands tenderness, patience, courage, character, assistance, forgiveness from them all. This is their great chance to show that they are not selfish, are not living only for the chocolate bars and the Mickey Mouses; that when life tests them they can show generosity and endurance. Appreciate once and for all that this poor weak idle fellow has lost what makes life sweet and bearable to all of us; he's lost your respect, his neighbors' and his children's respect, and, worst of all, his own respect, so pity him.

Treat him honorably, and make the children treat him so. No teasing, no reproaches, no regrets for the man he might have been. Have his chair set to the table, his bed nicely made, his wants considered. Say to the children: "He is your father, and you owe him all this," and say to the world as little as the world need hear.

The effect upon the children's character will be only a little less startling and beneficial than the effect upon your own. Peace and harmony will reign where irritability and impatience were before. This maudering old derelict is your responsibility, as a half-witted child would be, and the moment you accept him bravely is the moment when he ceases to be too heavy a burden. The worse he is, in fact, the more strangely exalted you and his children will feel. The more provocation the more glory in overcoming it.

Suppose there were another gentle old loafer and drunkard in town whose two lovely girls you met. Suppose those girls spoke of their father with charity and dignity, can you not see how much finer an impression they would make, than if they had glibly explained that mama had kicked daddy out years ago? Suppose that oldest son of yours has a wife that is something less than perfect some day. Isn't it going to be the greatest inspiration to him to remember mother's untiring devotion and dignity? And suppose some gallant young drinker presently comes after that oldest daughter? Remembering her father is she likely to believe his promises that he will instantly reform for love of her? I don't think so.

The woman who has children is the richest woman in the world. No matter what her other problems may be, if she is surrounded with sons and daughters she can work her way through to happiness. Nature has made women that way, no matter how much economic independence, divorce, birth control seem to free her, they are only fresh chains holding her from what is real; the love, the care, the glory of her children.

Kate, whose letter I am answering, is richly blessed in four who are "all darlings," and secondarily fortunate in that her income, while modest for a city woman with four children, is ample on a farm, and is in her own hands. She can go straight ahead, knowing that the drinking and gambling propensities of her unfortunate mate won't ruin her home, as they have ruined so many homes.

The momentary sense of relief she would gain when shameless old Judd was finally ousted would not compensate her for all the wretched complications and humiliations and pin-pricks that inevitably follow such a step. The moment any wife takes it she commits herself to a policy of self-justification; she can't allow any neighbor, nor even his children to hint that there was any good in Judd. No, Judd was impossible. Impossible he has to remain. When young Judd says: "Member the Christmas when we were all sick and dally carried us downstairs to see the tree?" she has to answer in quick jealousy: "I made daddy do that, dear. Daddy would never have thought of it!" She may hate herself for having to take this position, but it won't do to have them making a hero of their father.

Kate has only experienced somewhat sharply what many women endure in milder forms; the disillusionment of discovering that a human being is not a god. She thought life with Judd would be different. It turns out to be just taking care of a man who is a failure.

But her children are a living delight that will live on in their children. Tiny and serious in the nursery over bottles and socks; eager around a Christmas tree; sprawling brown-legged on mountain tops or sandy beaches while the chocolate pot boils, growing up and bringing her their love affairs, how glorious they are!

Keep their father in their lives, Kate. You will be the loser, and not he, if you send him away. Accept the shadow with the sunlight, and you'll find that a sorrow well borne has a way of deepening the joy.

For ourselves as well as our children it's a good thing to follow the advice of Browning's old prophet, and welcome each rebuff that turns earth's smoothness rough. The children who have conquered a hard and shameful and difficult situation at home are going out into the world some day ready to meet other dragons.

Enjoy Waterless Cookery With The Modern Electric Range

It reduces time of cooking . . . cost of operation . . . and more important, preserves the health-giving value of foods

● Imagine cooking ten pounds of potatoes in only one cup of water. That is all it requires if you cook electrically. Fresh carrots, beans, peas and many other vegetables cooked on a modern electric range do not need to be drowned in a fathom of water to cook them tender—thoroughly.

● Waterless cookery gives you nutritious, full-flavored food with all of its vitamins and mineral elements preserved—not poured down the kitchen sink due to cooking in an excess of water.

● Enjoy waterless cookery in your own home on the most modern range in the history of civilization. Its amazing speed, cleanliness, safety and consistently better results have captured the imagination of West Texas women.

The cleanliness of the electric range has forever banished "hand-biding"* for hundreds of West Texas women—only one of the score of its modern features.

*"Hand-biding" is a result of scouring blackened pots and pans.

MRS. ROY BRISTOW DIED
THURSDAY NIGHT, FEB. 18

A pall of sadness fell over a wide circle of friends and acquaintances on Thursday night, Feb. 18, when it was learned that Mrs. Roy Bristow, a young wife and mother, had passed away at her home, in the Boyd Chapel community.

Mrs. Bristow was just three days past thirty-two years of age. She had suffered considerably with asthma for a long time and her last illness was said to be pneumonia. Her death was unexpected as it was thought she had passed the crisis and had a good chance to recover, but a sudden change developed and death came quickly.

Mrs. Bristow's maiden name was Myrtle Dutton, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dutton, who reside near Radium. She was born in Caldwell county, Feb. 15, 1905, but most of her life was in this community, where she had won the esteem and love of a wide circle of friends. She was married to Roy Bristow in November, 1921. Two children were born to this union, one of which died in infancy, the other, the little Miss Rosemary, age 10, is a charming little girl and a favorite of all who know her.

Besides her husband and little daughter, Mrs. Bristow is mourned by her parents, and the following sisters, Mmes. Troy Austin, Dee Rankin, Jack Carter, Orel Carpenter, Adel Murff, and Misses Marie and Eunice Dutton. Three brothers survive, Richard, Alford and Woodie Dutton.

Mrs. Bristow had been a devoted member of the Baptist Church since she was 15 years of age. She was a faithful, helpful companion and loving mother, a high type of womanhood whose influence will live for good to all who were near her.

Funeral services were held at the Boyd Chapel Baptist Church on Friday afternoon, in the presence of an unusually large number of saddened relatives and friends. Rev. H. Skiles of Stamford led in the services and Rev. Shannon, pastor of the Fairview Church, her former pastor, contributed to the services in keeping with the life of the deceased.

The number of floral offerings also helped to express as nothing else can do, the love and esteem held in the hearts of many loved ones.

The body was placed to rest in the Neinda Cemetery, by the Barrow Company.

HITSON 4-H CLUB

"The principal thing to remember in the care of chicks," says the County Demonstrator, Miss Hipp, "is the cleanliness of brooders, feeders and waterers, another point of importance is the temperature of the brooder house must be correct. A good sign of the chicks being cold is hovering, and they will develop a habit of this, so it's best to keep the brooder house plenty warm all the time."

The club met at the school building February 18; three members were absent. Clara Mae Gonzales joined the club making a total of 28 members.

Miss Hipp gave a very interesting discussion on "Care of the Teeth."

Most of the members have fully equipped their sewing boxes.

The next meeting, with the Sponsor, will be March 4 and the subject will be "Baby Chicks."

SUPREME COURT CHANGES

While the legislature of Texas goes round and round over taxes on oil, sulphur, incomes, utilities and other issues, including horse racing and dog racing, and last but not least how and where to get the money to pay liberal pensions to the old people, there seems to be a big row going on at Washington over the President's proposal to reorganize the Federal Courts.

On account of there being so many old Judges now sitting on the benches of various Federal Courts of the country, the President has sent a special message and bill to Congress providing for the retirement of all Judges at the age of 70 years and in case any member of the Court reaches the age of 70 and does not resign, then the President shall appoint an additional Judge to sit with the present 9 members as a full term Judge for life, the same as all Federal Judges.

This proposal of the President has caused a storm of protest both in Congress and among the lawyers and bar associations throughout the States. The President is being roundly criticised and accused of improper motives and openly charged with seeking to pack the Supreme Court with partisan and political Judges who will decide against the majority of the present Court who have held the laws unconstitutional passed by Congress at his request.

The President has strong defenders in and out of Congress and the contest bids fair for a time at least to violently disturb the entire nation. It looks to me like if the President is willing to retire the Judges at 70 on full pay for life they should be satisfied and willing to step out of the way with the honor and salary.

Any Judge that wants to continue under this condition may be impelled by some reason not disclosed by the record. Such desire to continue certainly does not promote judicial efficiency.

Under the President's plan six of the nine Judges which now constitute the Supreme Court would be retired with all the honor and salary which the office can bestow. Because President Roosevelt would appoint these six new Judges ought not to make any difference because he will have the right under the Constitution to appoint the successors to these old Judges now passed 75 during his present term of office, as in the natural order of life they can not expect to live much longer or render much additional service.

There certainly is no merit in the contention that the President might appoint partisan and political friends, because if he did then the Senate could refuse to confirm the President's appointments until he did appoint somebody who was known to be competent and worthy. This fact seems to be overlooked by the various lawyers and bar associations who seem too eager to charge the President with insincerity. This wise provision written by the pioneer statesmen has since the formation of our government amply protected the people from the possibility of a corrupt appointment, to this sacred position.

In my opinion Federal Judges should not be appointed under the age of 50 and should be retired on full pay for life at 70. If any Judge is not satisfied with this arrangement, then he really needs another Judge to either hold him down or help him out. The people need both. The President scores again.

OUR NOTE: Mr. Ferguson has peeled the bark off and laid bare the actual situation. After all, why has some one not been bold enough to suggest some improvement in our Judicial branch of government before Mr. Roosevelt? Certainly if age is to be considered there should be a "minimum" and a "maximum." No one who has got as much patriotism as a gnat would think of weakening any branch of government.

Fan the flame of youth, but don't get burned.
